Biography

Long ago in Fairyland, the elder fairies spoke of a magical house. This house, they said, could be found rising from a trove of old books, down in the Enchanted Forest. And there lived a legendary storyteller, who could transport fairies to new worlds with just a few words. One day, a brave group of young fairies entered the woods in search of the fabled house. When they came upon a stone cottage perched atop a stack of ancient, weathered books, they knew the legend was true.

Pleased to have visitors at last, and determined to clear a path through the trees so that others would come more often, Merrick Read welcomed the group inside. Shy at first, the young fairies quickly warmed to the epic storyteller as they sat around the fireplace, sharing their own tales.

Afterwards, news spread of the fairies' new friend, 'Bookworm'. Merrick finally did get more visitors, and was particularly captivated by tales of the other fairies' tooth-collecting travels. Now a tooth fairy himself, Bookworm's magic helps children make new friends through sharing stories.

The Chapterhouse

All About The Chapterhouse

Merrick's home, The Chapterhouse, is a cozy, book-filled den that feels more like a library than a house. His huge book collection is arranged on tall shelves lining the walls, from the floor all the way to the ceiling. Although most fairies can fly to the top shelves, there are small ladders running along each wall, to help friends who can't fly reach the highest books.

The Chapterhouse is always bustling with Fairyland residents who have popped round to borrow a book, or to sit and read for a while in front of the glowing fire. Some evenings, Bookworm hosts 'Storytime Gatherings' where he and friends read aloud from a favorite book, or tell one of their own stories.

Reading takes us to new worlds, and by getting to know a story's characters, we can imagine what life is like 'wearing someone else's shoes'. Sometimes the characters are real-life friends, or even ourselves! Merrick and his friends share their tales to help others see the world through new eyes. As we understand each other better and grow closer with every story shared.

Official Tooth Fairy Letter

Dear

Congratulations on losing your tooth! I am your Tooth Fairy, Merrick Read, but my friends call me Bookworm.

I have been studying your precious tooth, and it has shown me glimmers of your own life story so far. What a wonderful life you lead, and such an extraordinary imagination you have! It seems you enjoy stories as much as I do.

I would very much like you to keep reading, and share your own tales with the world. Whether a story is made-up, or real-life, remember it will unlock a new world for whoever hears it.

Since we are so alike, I have gifted you with my 'Shining Story' magic. It has lit a special glow inside you, that will help you to find the right words to tell your own stories. It will also remind you that the tales of others can help you to see the world as they do.

We are all different, but through the power of words, we can learn to understand each other better, and forge lasting friendships.

Keep the pages turning,

Merrick Read
